

who we are

For over 2 decades, we have been a trusted partner to companies and organizations of all sizes. With a track record for repeat clients and building successful annual events, we are proud to be one of the Tri-State Area's leading meeting and event managers.

what we do

corporate special events

We plan and manage corporate events of all types, including employee recognition and appreciation events, holiday celebrations, and both in-house and offsite meetings.

virtual events, event tech

Online, we are experts in bringing as much of the in-person experience to the virtual. Offline, we can help optimize in-person events with event technology, A/V, and more.

meetings and conferences

We specialize in producing meetings and conferences from concept to post-event, with experience managing even the most exclusive of C-suite gatherings.

vendor management

After over two decades in business, we know the best in the business. We introduce and manage trusted and vetted vendors who bring the best of what their industry has to offer.

registration services

Your attendees' first impression begins at registration. We offer comprehensive, standalone registration services for events large and small, including both on-site and pre-event management.

pre-event services

Not sure where to begin? We offer services to help you get started including concept development, venue search and selection, and contract negotiation with vendors and venues.

why us?

time-tested experience

We don't just manage the logistics. We bring over two decades of experience, vetted vendors, and tried-and-true processes, ensuring a smooth and successful event.

personalized attention

We treat our clients' businesses like our own. Your goals become our goals, and we work as an extension of your team. We treat each project individually, designing bespoke, holistic solutions that work for you.

certifiably better

Our founder Lorraine Mariella, CSEP, CMP holds two of the most valued certifications in hospitality. Eventium is a member of IATA and is a certified women-owned business. Both Eventium and founder Lorraine Mariella have also been the recipient of dozens of industry awards.

our philosophy

We know that any year's business success is built on the success of the last, and we believe that your events should be, too.

Working together, we create outstanding events that build momentum from event to event, year to year.

how?

More than simply managing production and logistics, Eventium serves as a true partner for our clients, treating their business like it's our own.

We help navigate everything from pre-event decisions to analyzing learnings to apply the next year.
